

Client: Rush Street

Publication: LAist.com

Date: April 1, 2009

Visitors Per Month: 1.4 million

We're Not Fooling: April Is National Grilled Cheese Month

Trust us on this one: April is National Grilled Cheese Month. Just like last year, and the year before that, LAist thinks this is just about the ooey-gooyest most delicious thing since--or involving--sliced bread.

So how does one go about partaking in the celebration? Well, your options are plentiful. Of course, you can put your own bread and cheese together (may we suggest purchasing the most important ingredient at Andrew's Cheese Shop, the Cheese Store of Silver Lake, the Cheese Store of Beverly Hills, the Artisan Cheese Gallery, or at supermarkets with great cheese like Whole Foods and, surprise, surprise, Fresh & Easy) but it can be oh so fun to go out and get your grilled cheese on.

Several local eateries are getting into the spirit by offering specials for Grilled Cheese Month. The Grande Dame is Clementine, who will be offering 5 different grilled cheese sandwiches that change out weekly, some of which are recipes from top local chefs, and all of which are variations on the theme of Los Angeles. Other places to hit up are Palinette at MOCA, who have a create-your-own masterpiece Grilled Cheese Workshop special for $4. Culver City's Rush Street has a Grilled Cheese and Tomato Soup lunch combo for $6, and Ivan Kane's Cafe Was has Hobo Mondays, where you can score Grilled cheese and fries--both cooked in truffle oil--for $10. We're partial to Laurel Tavern's damn good Grilled Cheese ourselves. All of this cheesiness culminates in the Annual Grilled Cheese Invitational, which happens on April 25th; register to enter starting tomorrow, and the location will be announced on the 20th.

One Grilled Cheese mecca that won't be celebrating this month...Meltdown, who just shuttered last week.

So where will you get your grilled cheese this month? Let us know, and take some pictures, too!

Do you like your Grilled Cheese a little naughty? (Photo from last year's Grilled Cheese Invitational by Tales of an L.A. Addict via LAist Featured Photos)

By Lindsay William-Ross in Food on April 1, 2009 11:30 AM 6 Comments 8 Recommends [\[Share +\]](#)